S. F. Cops To Come Here For Diamond Turney

It should prove a good game, this between the San Francisco coppers. The game will take place here on Monday at the high school diamond. The events leading up to the arrangements for the game are thus detailed by Jack Rosenbaum of the San Francisco Examiner staff:

The Hall of Justice is seething under a feud which has been hanging for three years. The ring leader of one faction is Corp. Pete Maloney. Heading the other cast is Detectiv Sergeant William Bennett. The two have gathered about them henchmen from every department at the "hall." Enmity of one tong for another is mild compared to the rivalry between the Bennetts and Maloneys.

Numerous methods have been suggested—and rejected— for the two warring parties to have it out once and for all. Being sportsmen, they have decided to settle their dispute in the good old American fashion. The two clans, loaded with baseball bats, balls, gloves and other paraphernalia suitable to the occasion, will repair to Redwood City on September 2 and go into open warfare. But it won't be an ordinary baseball game. No, sir!

Every batter must ride to first on a bicycle.. If, for instance, Sergeant Bennett is unable to hoist his 262 pounds on a bicycle he will be automatically declared out. But the wily sergeant is insuring himself against all emergencies. He sent the bicycle to the Union Iron  orks yesterday to have it bolstered by steel frames. There will be little danger of it crushing under the burden.

The rule of the game is that a bicycle will be held up close to the batter's box| As soon as the ball is hit, the batter hops on the seat—if he is able—and speeds towards First. From first to home it will be a case of using legs.

Sergeant Bennett will have to pitch the entire game for his team, while the same applies to Corporal Maloney.

On September 22, members of Lincoln Lodge, Sons of St. George, and of the Daughters of St. George, will hold a picnic at Toyon Farm, the Los Altos home of T. Burrows. Each family will bring its lunch and will be supplied with tea by the lodge. Swimming and games will be enjoyed. Directions to Toyon Farm can be secured at the Depot Garage at Los Altos.

R. L. Spencer, manager of the local Skaggs Safeway store, with his family, has returned from a two weeks' vacation trip. Part of the time was spent in the southern part of the state, visiting relatives; the remainder in a fishing trip to Lake Tahoe. Spencer reports fishing good at the lake and he caught a number of large trout.

Mrs. Gertrude Hatch May is oping her piano studio at 1645 Brewster avenue. Mrs. May has had much teaching experience and is well known in this community. She has appeared locally with a quartet consisting of Miss Erna Wiechman, 1st violin, Miss Ilka Wiechman, 2nd violin and Mrs. Josephine Wagner, violin cellist.

John D. Gish.

News was received in Woodside Monday of the death, in San Francisco of Maurice Koop, who was well known to the older residents here. He was born in Woodside about 30 years ago and lived here until he moved to San Francisco about 8 years ago.

Julian O'Neill and his mother, Mrs. Hugh O'Neill, have gone to Monterey for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Audiffred and son, Jacques, will spend the week end and holiday in attendance at the State Fair in Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Hooper and family will return to their home in the city on the first of the month. Miss Peggy Hooper gave a swimming party to her Woodside friends on Monday last.

Water District Endorsed by C. C.

The question of the formation of a county water district was discussed at the meeting of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce Monday. The chief speaker of the meeting was C. G. Lambert who spoke in favor of the formation of a district to comprise the entire eastern slope of the county.

Following the address of Lambert a resolution was introduced by C. M. Doxse placing the chamber of commerce on record as favoring the formation of the proposed district. This was unanimously passed.

Lambert in his address drew attention to the fact that whereas a few years ago water was plentiful in this county and could be secured by drilling a well almost anywhere, the water table has now receded, until it is now below the level of the bay. This has resulted in salt seepage into many wells. A few years ago, he stated, artesian wells were a common sight throughout the county, but now wells must be driven to two hundred feet or more before water can be located.

The present water supply, Lambert pointed out, is inadequate for the present population, and will be entirely so as the population of the county increases with growth and development. Lambert urged that a district be formed which would make possible the making of negotiations with San Francisco for the purchase at wholesale rates of water from the Hetch Hetcry development.

The subject of municipal airports was also discussed at the meeting. Harold "Andy" Anderson spoke in favor of the formation of a local airport and recommended the purchase of the present privately owned field. The site would be ideal for such a use, Anderson stated. Anderson was introduced by Dr. W. B. Langston, former president of the Exchange Club, which has devoted much of its efforts to the promotion of aviation in this district.

D. R. Stafford introduced a resolution which was passed unanimously endorsing the construction by the California Highway Commission of a low level bridge across Redwood creek just east of the present Bradford street bridge to be part of the Bayshore highway project.

Game Wardens Hold Meeting

At the call of Captain Welch, state chief of the volunteer wardens of California, operating under the Fish and Game Commission, a meeting was held in the court room of Judge McAuliffe, Redwood City, on Friday evening, August 23, for the purpose of bringing together all th wardens from San Mato, Santa Clara and adjoining counties.

The meeting was very well attended, among those present being Captain Adams of Santa Cruz, Regular Deputy Halliday of Morgan Hill, Regular Deputy McPherson Lough of Palo Alto, volunteer wardens from Santa Clara, Morgan Hill, San Jose, Los Gatos and more than thirty other volunteer wardens from adjacent territory.

Regular Deputy Warden Joy was unfortunately absent on account of his recent bereavement.

Captain Welch delivered an extremely interesting lecture explaining the duties of wardens, the ideals set forth by the Fish and Game Bureau and the relationship existing between the wardens, the commission and the public.

An election was then held to choose a captain for San Mateo county to succeed Bruce Gibson, who declined to succeed himself on account of other pressing engagements. The choice fell upon A. C. Ames who was duly elected captain of San Mateo to succeed Gibson.

District Attorney Swart and Judge McAuliffe then addressed the meeting on judcal subjects as related to the wardens, and were followed by Chase Littlejohn of Redwood City, who spoke entertainly on wild life in San Mateo county fifty years ago.

Workman Killed By Fast Train

While at work on the tracks of the Southern Pacific Company at San Mateo Wednesday, Joel Olivera, 22, an employee of the company connected with one of the section gangs, was struck and instantly killed by a fast train. Olivera was engaged with several other workmen repairing the rails near Tilton avenue in San Mateo. He was the only one to be working on the northbound tracks and is thought to have considered the approaching train to be on the other tracks. At any rate, he did not get off the tracks before the train was upon him.

Olivera lived at a rooming house in San Francisco. His only known relative is his mother, said to live in Mexicali.

Mrs. James A. Jones and Miss Mary A. Spencer, sisters of R. L. Spencer of this city, and Mrs. Jones' daughter, Mary Elizabeth, all of Wichita, Kansas, are visting at the Spencer home.

County Budget Given Approval

The county board of supervisors yesterday approved the new county budget for the year 1929-30, which has been compiled by Deputy County Auditor Edward Stack.

The supervisors have been in session all week wrestling with the county budget. They have used their pruning shears quite freely and have succeeded in trimming down county expenses. The greatest slash was made at the county poor farm. The dairy, which has been a source of vast outlays, has been eliminated and hereafter milk will be purchased from outside dealers. The board will meet on Tuesday to fix the tax rate for the coming year. If nothing intervenes between now and then the rate will most likely be fixed at $2.99 on the $100 of assessable property. This will be a reduction of eight cents from last year's rate of $3.07. This is commendable and the news will be received by the tax payers with high acclaim.

Damages Awarded To S. P. Trainman

Damages in the amount of $10,000 were awarded to Charles Stumbaugh, Southern Pacific switchman, against the Pacific Coast Steel Company in a suit tried before Judge Buck on Tuesday. Stumbaugh was shown to have been knocked from a train by a steel door at the plant of the steel company at South San Francisco. In his suit Stumbaugh charged that the injuries which he received were due to negligence of the operator of the door and of the company.

Two New Doctors To Practice Here

The advantages of Redwood City and the future which awaits the town have so appealed to two physicians that they have this week each decided to open an office here. The two physicians are Dr. R. B. Dibble, who comes to this city from Los Angeles and Dr. Ralph D. Howe who is connected with the Stanford Faculty in San Francisco.

Dr. Howe has opened up offices in the Sequoia building, having rented rooms 216 to 218 in that building. He is a graduate of Stanford University and served for some time in the Stanford hospital in San Francisco. He will conduct a general practice of medicine and surgery.

Dr. Dibble, formerly surgeon for the Santa Fe railway, has taken temporary quarters with Dr. J. P. H. Dykes. When suitable offices are available he will erect his equipment for X-Ray diagnosis and electro-therapy, and will specialize in electric treatments and treatment of chronic diseases.

Sharing In Prosperity

EDITORIAL

With their faces turned toward the West, thousands of Europeans look forward to the time when they may be permitted to come to the shores of America. To them it is the land of freedom and prosperity. It is their ultimate ambition to live as we live. The comforts and conveniences that we take as a matter of course seem to them like the richest kind of luxury. They wish to share in our national prosperity.

Because we have grown accustomed to our privileges, perhaps, we fail to appreciate how fortunate we are to be living in America today in the midst of the greatest prosperity in the history of mankind. And yet, the division of this national prosperity is not equal—all individuals and communities are not sharing alike. Why?

Personal success and community prosperity are largely the result of work. Prosperity may be compared to a load of grain being hauled to its destination by human labor. Some are "putting their shoulders to the wheel," some are walking along doing nothing, and some insist on riding. To share in this prosperity, both individuals and communities must put forth a well directed effort—they must work for their portion. No substitute has been found for work.

Do we of Redwood City deserve to share in the national prosperity? In this week's Community Development Campaign this matter is fully discussed. Here will be found the facts and figures that are the evidence of individual, family and community prosperity. Here is the material that will familiarize us with our relative position in regard to other individuals and communities, here the facts that should spur us on to greater effort. The parade of prosperity is ever marching onward, and to be in the front ranks of this parade we must deserve the position. For both our individual welfare and for the welfare of Redwood City, we must work for our share of national prosperity.

W. L. MEUSSDARFFER OPENS REALTY OFFICE

W. L. Meussdorffer, formerly local representaive of Mark A. McCann, announced this week the opening of a realty office of his own. Meussdorffer has secured an office at 530 El Camino Real at which the business will be conducted.

Clara L. Race has filed a petition to terminate a joint tenancy on Portola property owned by herself and the late Ben Race. This is valuable piece of real estate and was accumulated by Ben Race during his life time. Jas. T. O'Keefe represents the petitioner.

Two Big Stars In One Picture!

Rin-Tin-Tin, most famous of canine screen stars, has a new pal in his latest Warner Bros. picture, 'Frozen River' which is the attraction at the Sequoia Theatre, September 7, in conjunction with the awarding of the talking doll. It is little Davey Lee, the child actor who was discovered by Al Jolson and shared honors with that favorite of stage and screen in "The Singing Fool," and has since been starred by Warner Bros in "Sonny Boy."

Davey Lee is cast as the heroine's little brother who, alone in the woods one day, meets a strange dog, Lobo, raised by a pack of wolves. Lobo had left the pack and made advances to mankind only to meet with brutality and cruelty. He had become a killer, with a price upon his head, and had even been known to attack men. But the savage beast was only a dog to the little boy and his laughing affection won the heart of the animal. They became friends and the dog afterwards saved the boy's life.

The picture makes excellent dramatic and emotional use of affection between a boy and his dog which has played such a large part in the literature of childhood that it has passed in popular usage as a symbol of friendship and devotion.

Little Davey and Rinty became firm friends during the filming of "Frozen River", and the boy would have liked nothing better than to keep playing in Rinty's pictures, but Davey is now a star in his own right—the youngest star on the screen—and Rinty is also a star, and has been for a number of years, so their ways have parted for the time being at any rate. Others besides Davey in Rin-Tin-Tin's supporting company of humans include Raymon McKee, Nina Quartero, Josef Swickard, Frank Campeau, Lew Harvey and others. Harmon Wright directed from the story by John J. Fowler which Anthony Coldeway adapted.

State Fair Opens At Sacramento Sept. 1

By LAWRENCE MONFORT
(Capital News Bureau Service)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 29 — Heigh ho, the merry-o, the Farmer comes to town!

He's arriving behind fast-stepping trotters and on shank's mare, train and bus, plane and auto, and he's here to see the sights of the greatest agricultural show on earth — the California State Fair, expanded this year to an All Western States Exposition in honor of its diamond jubilee anniversary.

Without rival for displaying the cream of dairy herds, boasting the finest horse-flesh in the West, proud of her blue-blooded sheep and fat hogs, complacent over the supremacy of her poultry, California this year has beaten her own records and assembled the greatest livestock display since the Chicago World's Fair—a $3,000,000 stock parade to top the million-dollar spectacle of yesteryear.

Competing, too, for $130,000 in prizes will be the state's school children with an exhibit twice as large as that of last year and twice as representative. For the first time in history, all of California's 58 counties are represented by exhibits in some or all classes.

Agricultural hall, buzzing with activity today as hundreds of thousands throng toward Sacramento to bring the 10-day fair attendance over the 500,000 mark, presents a dazzling array of the finest fruits of the field and orchard, especially fascinating because of historical motifs displayed in many of the gorgeous county booths.

The fastest stepping horses yet brought into one padock in the west are ready for the bugle call to the post in the initial race of the daily track events. Their highly educated cousins, literally bedded in blue ribbons are ready for the first night of the Horse Show.

Machinery hall is crowded with the latest inventive product of manufacturers specializing in orchard and farm equipment.

Flooding the great grounds is a spectacularly beautiful array of gold and blue lights. Three crack bands are at hand to furnish music day and night. Nightly displays of fireworks, and twice daily free shows featuring some of the world's wonders of the sawdust arena promise thrills galore.

Sacramento is all set to care for its thousands of annual visitors, and when San Mateo County Day, September 7, visitors from that district will find rooms easily available.

Crowding the grounds for space, minor events galore will attract old and young alike. The junior stock show this year will be a big thing; glorifying the California country girl will be the special task of Lions Clubs, sponsoring generous prizes for those who can bake, drive and milk. Airplanes will be as numerous as automobiles in display rooms. There will be a notable exhibit of art, and needle and fancy work. A cooking school is a new feature. Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will show their prowess. A lavish display of flowers, cultivated and wild, will add to beauty of the grounds.

Joining with California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Arizona and the Republic of Mexico will have beautiful comprehensive exhibits, representative of their agricultural, industrial and manufacturing prowess.

New Store To Open Here Soon

The building which until recently was occupied by the Redwood City Hardware Company, has been leased through Whitcomb & Smith of this city to M. Beder of San Francisco, who is having the place remodeled and fitted out as one of the finest ladies' ready-to-wear stores on the peninsula. The new store will be open for business, according to the present plans, on Saturday, September 21.

Beder has secured the agency for many of the finest lines of goods and will cater to the feminine taste for all ages. The building is being remodeled under the personal supervision of the new tenant.

CHEVROLET BRANCH OPENED ON MAIN ST.

A branch agency for handling the Chevrolet car has been opened at 247 Main street by L. O. Arens, Chevrolet agent of Palo Alto. The local branch is to be managed by W. H. Mofield, who recently moved to Redwood City with his family from Harrisburg, Illinois, where he spent several years as a Chevrolet dealer. Mofield is also a qualified mechanic, and was chosen by Arens to manage the branch here on account of his previous record of high class service and sales ability.

On September 6, J. H. Coats, veteran member of the Sons of St. George, will present the lodge flags to Lincoln lodge of Palo Alto. The affair will be a joint ceremony by the Sons and Daughters of St. George and there will be a concert as well. All are invited.

To Be Married Here Wednesday

A notice of intention to marry was filed in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese yesterday by L. A. Behrens and Mrs. Clara Bean. The wedding will take place Wednesday afternoon at the Congregational church in this city.

Mrs. Bean, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCoy Bills, has for several years been a teacher in the local schools. Mr. Behrans is a well-known young business man of Redwood City. He is a director and assistant cashier of the First National Bank of this city.

Services Held For Mrs. Alma Cooper

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the James Crowe undertaking parlors for Mrs. Alma L. Cooper, who passed away Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Dent of 428 Spruce street, following a brief illness. Mrs. Cooper was the wife of Daniel R. Cooper of this city and is also survived by a sister, Mrs. H. E. Brown of San Francisco. She was born in Gilroy.

Services were conducted by Rev. C. E. Winning of the Methodist church, and Mrs. Wilbur Doxsee sang during the service. Interment was in Alta Mesa cemetery.

EAGLES TO HOLD LADIES' NIGHT FRIDAY

Ladies' Night will be featured this evening by Redwood City Aerie, No. 418, Fraternal Order of Eagles, when mothers, wives, sweethearts and sisters of members will be guests of the Aerie. It is an affair that the Aerie has observed every three months for several years and has ben the means of uniting a large number of members and their families in closer and stronger fraternal ties.

Dennis T. McGuire, chairman of arrangements for the ladies' reception and entertainment, announces that a wonderful program is in store for their enjoyment. Moving pictures and a musical program will begin at eight o'clock and you are advised to come early.

Refreshments wil be served in the banquet hall at the close of the entertainment and dancing is to conclude the evening's festivities.

Miss Gertrude Perry, who has been at Catalina island for the past week, has returned. She was accompanied on her vacaton by her aunt, Mrs. Frank Peters of Oakland.

Radio Station To Be Located Near Belmont Soon

The sale of a large tract of land near Belmont to the General Electric Company, which was reported last week, was confirmed this week by the filing of the papers with the county recorder. The tract consists of 25 acres located at the end of Harbor boulevard.

It is the intention of the electric company to utilize the tract as a site for one of the largest broadcasting stations on the Pacific Coast. The station will not only be used as a commercial and broadcasting station but for experimentation with telephoto and other branches of broadcasting.

Construction on the buildings to house the equipment will begin within the next thiryt days, it was stated this wek. A large force of men iwill be employed.

Elimination Of Grade Crossings To Be Discussed

As a result of an accident occuring in Palo Alto last week in which four persons were killed and two others seriously injured, the Palo Alto city council this week passed a recommendation favoring the elimination of all grade crossings on the peninsula

It is the plan of the Palo Alto council to call a meeting in the near future to which the city councils of all other municipalities on the peninsula wil be invited, as well as the supervisors of San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties. At this time it is expected that a movement will be set on foot for the elimination of all crossings at grade along the entire peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller of Tujunga spent several days this week with the former's brother, William Miller of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kennedy of this city have as their guest this week their nephew, Frank Wyle of Chico.

A contract for the construction of a steel bridge over the Arroyo San Geronimo at Point Reyes Station has been awarded by the Marin County Board of Supervisors to A. Mattson of San Bruno. Mattson's bid for the work was $24,055.12.

Plans for a new outdoor amphitheater, to accommodate 3000 persons, which may be enlarged to a 10,000 capacity, were made at a meeting of the Roosevelt Glen Amphitheater Association at San Jose. Present plans call for a stage on which 500 persons can take part in productions.

A monument is being erected by the citizens of Comptonville in memory of J. Pelton, inventor of the Pelton waterwheel, who conceived and built the first wheel in his old tin shop in the little Sierra County town. The monument is to be eleven feet in height and is to be surmounted by an eleven-inch model Pelton wheel, a valuable invention to the miner.

Napa Grange has voted to recommend to the Napa County Board of Supervisors that $2,500 to included in the 1930 budget for the purpose of making a survey of the available water supply of the county. A bill recently enacted by the legislature provides that a like sum be supplied by the State for the purpose.

Pittsburg will at once commence the erection of a water tower to hold 152,000 gallons, or 50 per cent larger than the present tank. The tank is made necessary by the sale by the city of the site of the present tower at Fourth and Cumberland streets to C. L. Hoffman, of Oakland. Hoffman states that a large business structure will be started as soon as he gets possession of the property. The sale price of the lot is $27,500.

Featured by reductions ranging from 2 cents by 54 cents in the city, the San Joaquin county tax rate for the coming year has been set by the Board of Supervisors. Stockton's county rate was cut from $2.42 to $2.40, and with an additional reduction in the special school tax of 54 cents, a total decrease of 65 cents is affected.

California is leading in aviation, so G. A. Nelson of the Continental Air Express told members of the Hanford Exchange Club. There on a visit to establish Hanford as a stop on the San Francisco-Los Angeles line, he declared that the state has more ships and pilots than any other state in the union.

Interesting sidelights of California history are revealed as plans progress for the Diamond Jubilee State Fair which opens in Sacramento August 31st. For example, a silver pitcher. It was awarded by the State Agricultural Society in 1860 to Jerome C. Davis for having the best farm in California. The farm is now the State Agricultural college at Davis, Yolo county. The historic trophy will be exhibited in the Yolo county booth at the Jubilee State Fair.

Apparently successful in its fight to stop sinking of the new earth fill approaching the eastbound subway on the new line to the Martinez-Army Point Bridge, the Southern Pacific is now experiencing trouble in building the new grade to the Army Point bridgehead. Over 16,000 yards of new fill west of Goodyear sank recently shoving up great mounds of tule earth. C. A. Jeffers, local contractor has just completed four miles of new fencing along the railroad's new right of way west of Goodyear where the bridge approach diverts from the old main line.

Nearly $3,000,000,000 of stocks, bonds, notes and other securities have been authorized by the State Railroad Commission since the public utilities act became effective March 23, 1912. The commission cast up and found that it has passed on applications for permission to issue securities totaling $3,074,957,271.07, and has authorized the issuance of securities totaling $2,841,274,842.64. As an indication that the commission does not place the rubber stamp of its approval on all issues asked, Recorder H. A. Frazier called attention to the fact that the commission has refused to permit the issuance of $113,495,786.65 of securities, and has dismissed applications for $120,186,641.78.

With Pittsburg's factories and the industrial area of the Contra Costa waterfront as its objective, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is taking the necessary preliminary steps to invade the Contra Costa territory for the distribution for domestic and industrial uses of natural gas, it was disclosed with applications being filed for two franchises. The first application was filed with the Board of Supervisors for a franchise to lay pipe lines for the transmission of natural gas from the Alameda county line via the tunnel road to Walnut Creek serving the community of Lafayette, St. Mary's college, Orinda and the rapidly developing suburban areas en route.

With the completion of a paving program covering twenty-one city blocks, every street inside the city limits of Concord will be paved, according to City Clerk W. E. Ballenger. The present paving progam will cost the city about $50,000, Ballenger said, and will be completed by October 1.

Uncle Sam contributed $2182 to Butte County schools during the past fiscal year to help educate Indian children, according to Jay S. Partridge, county superintendent of schools.

There are 3006 students in the Vallejo public schools, an increase of 396.

The Carquinez Toll Bridge company, successors to the Northern California Development company, filed with the state department of public works an application to construct a bridge over Carquinez Straits from Dillon's Point to Eckley. The application provides that the span would be operated as a private toll bridge and that the state would have the option to purchase at any time for $5,000,000.

San Jose's population is 78,000, and Santa Clara county ranks seventh among the fifty-eight California counties, with 145,000 population, according to figures of J. M. Silvey, manager of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce. Santa Clara county shows a 44.4 per cent increase over the last nine years, which compares favorably with surrounding counties.

Records show that 154 new employes have been put to work at the Mare Island station the past month, or a grand total of 5169 men and women employed at the naval base this summer.

With the special 12 cent tax to pay for Southern Pacific subway property damages passed, work on the railroad's new right of way is slated to start at San Jose within one month.

Seven petitions representing more than 7000 people in Marin county, were presented to the supervisors protesting the removal of the Butchertown hog farms in San Francisco to Marin county.

Citizens of Albany will go to the polls the second Monday in April, 1930, to vote upon the proposed annexation to Berkeley. Election dates were set by the City Council following the presentation of the third petition asking for the election by the Albany Taxpayers' League.

Petitions asking that Red Bluff be assigned one of the four contemplated companies of the California National Guard, were in circulation there recently. Elmer Stump, division engineer of the California Highway Commission and World War veteran, is leading the movement.

All attendance records for Sequoia National Park are being broken this year, despite the general report of a slow tourist season. Registration already has passed 80,000, and will leap over the 100,000 mark by the end of this month, it is believed.

The Yuki Indian tribe of Mendocino and Humboldt counties is fast disappearing. Only one full-blood and two half-breeds are left who are old enough to remember the tribal customs and traditions of former days. This was the situation reported by E. W. Gifford, curator of the University of California museum of anthropology, who recently spent several months in the district.

America's highest road building crew was encamped at an elevation of 12,500 feet above the timber line on the western slope of Mount Whitney, tallest peak in the United States. The men, working at an elevation of 14,000 feet, are building a trail to the top of the mountain from Giant Forest, Sequoia National Park.

Word reached Santa Rosa of the killing of the first bear to have been bagged in Sonoma county in fifteen years. Remel Griffith of Cloverdale came upon the bear while hunting deer in Pine Mountain. The bruin weighed 200 pounds.

A celebration will be held at Novato on September 21 to celebrate the selection of Marin Meadows, near that city, as the new army air base site.

State highway overhead costs have been cut from 5.38 per cent of total expenditures to 3.46 per cent during the last two years, Ralph W. Bull, chairman of the State Highway Commission, announced. The amount added to project costs for contingencies, during the same period, has been reduced from 12 per cent to 5 per cent, he asserted.

U. S. Webb, attorney general of California, has begun a fight to reimburse 20,000 Indians in the State for lands taken from them in 1852. On behalf of the Indians, Webb filed a petition with the United States Court of Claims in Washington, D. C., for judgment of $12,800,000. This sum represents the value of 8,800,000 acres of land which the government promised to turn over to the Indians but failed to do so.

Thomas J. Reynolds, 81, one of the last surviving pony express riders from early gold days, died at his Sacramento home recently. Reynolds was credited with bringing the first news to California of President Lincoln's election sixty-nine years ago. Coming to this country from Canada when only 9, Reynolds rode the romantic pony express between San Francisco and Knights Landing, for many years.

The noisy engineer hanging to the whistle cord on railroad locomotives must let loose on the first beat, according to an edict issued by Mayor G. G. Stice of Red Bluff, after citizens had registered numerous complaints. Sick folks have suffered extreme annoyance when long, discordant blasts have awakened them in the dead of night.

Active patrol work, good judgment on the part of campers and good luck have prevented forest fires in the Tulare county mountains thus far this season. The forest reserve and the national parks have both escaped fire visitation save for a couple of one-acre fires caused by lightning and which were quickly extinguished. Only a comparatively few unextinguished campfires have been found this year. The fire hazard, however, is equally as great as last year, officials say.

Improvement of the Oroville-Cherokee road has resulted in destruction of "Lovers' Rock" a well known landmark near Cherokee. The rock received its name when Cherokee was world famous as a hydraulic mine, and numerous young couples visited the rock. It was blasted with a charge of dynamite in order that the road might be widened.

A resolution calling for a $30,000 bond election to be held in September for new fire equipment, was passed at a meeting of the San Anselmo Town Council.

With the opening, next spring, of the stretch of the General's highway between the General Sherman tree area in Giant Forest and Lodge Pole camp, five miles from Giant Forest, the Sequoia National Park service has secured an appropriation of $13,000 for development of domestic water for that important camping section.

Wood Has Hard Center

On the island of Guam, the largest and most thickly populated of the Marianas, there are about 6,400 acres of forest. A wood known as ifil, hard and heavy at the center, is the most important wood on the island. Various other woods, among them chopag, dugdug, ufa and ajgoa, are found on the island.

SUB ROSA By MIMI

Punching the Meal Ticket

EXISTENCE is largely a matter of eating. We eat to live, live to eat, and then some. "Earth," says Anatole France, "is the planet of hunger, the place where one eats." I guess it's the same with Mars and Saturn and all the other planets of the sun-kissed solar system. Food is one thing on which woman and man agree. Both have to have it. Maybe we can get them to agree on other things, too.

The life of woman used to be written in two chapters—getting the meals and getting tickets, or maybe the last came first. As for Mister Man, he has had many titles and decorations, but the most universal one is that of Meal Ticket, for man's just naturally a bread-winner.

But now that woman is in the game and is making her living, one reason for man's existence has been eliminated, wiped off the masculine map. He can't pour out the milk, and say: "Kitty, kitty, kitty." He must find some other reason to give a girl when he wants to marry her, for he can't woo and win by means of the food inducement.

The self-feeding girl has changed the appearance of the whole world. No longer does she have to hang around the house, picking up what she can in the way of food and clothing until he comes to her deliverance. She's providing her own dinners just the way her mother used to prepare them after dad had bought the stuff. Love and marriage have changed and the way to the altar no longer leads past the grocery store.

Man has had to change his tune, or will have to soon, if he's going to sing us any love-songs. The rooster robin thinks he's doing a fine stunt when he brings a fat worm to place in the bill of the hen robin on the nest, but the roosters of both kinds will have to perk up and get busy with another line. It used to be, "Each morn and noon and eve, I bring thee beefsteaks, cutlets, potatoes, creamcakes, nutlets, tomatoes," but the girl who has an account at the delicatessen store isn't going to encore a song of that sort. Man must have his voice cultivated and sing a love song.

There is hunger and hunger. You know the pangs of appetite which make your soul cry out for crackers and cheese, and you know the deeper pangs which make it long for love. Woman can get her food from the butcher, but she has a sort of hunger which only the lover-man can supply.

Men are slow in learning this lesson. They offer us solid food when we'd rather have applesauce. Give us the orange blossoms, and we'll supply our own grapefruit. Yes, and any one of us will give back the meal-ticket in order to get love-letter.

She Who Hesitates

IF HE who hesitates is lost, she who hesitates is often saved. The business of hesitation is one which plays a great part in woman's acting, and if men are going to understand the opposite sex, they must be prepared for reluctance and slow motion generally.

It's all right for man to deal straight out from the shoulder, but that sort of thing wouldn't be graceful with a woman whose shoulders are more for ornament than use. Then, too, a man can settle down to brass tacks, but no woman can reguard such frankness as anything but crudeness. She prefers to hesitate in a delicious, dilly dallying sort of way. She can't help it, and doesn't wish to, either.

Women are the angels who fear to tread where men rush in.

Men are your pioneers and go-getters. When it comes to breaking up new ground and felling old trees, they can put it all over women. But if they want comfort and neatness after the raw work has been done, they have to call in the woman to put the artistic touch and cozy feeling to things.

No matter how determined a woman may be, she keeps her strength concealed, just as her muscles are encased in a certain amount of fatty tissue. If she means "no," she will say "perhaps," and when she says "perhaps" she means "yes." She is just as modest with her mind as with her form. She gives you an idea about herself and lets you guess at the rest.

The hesitancy of woman is an indication of her preciousness. She doesn't keep her dates right on the minute, for she thinks she's worth waiting for. You don't hear her saying, "You bet," to a marriage proposal even after she's been working for months to make her man talk business. She thinks it's nicer and more becoming to appear surprised, to swear that it's all too sudden, and then demand time to think it over.

The glory of womanhood is not a dayspring but a slow dawning with a pinkish light making its way gradually through a mass of mist. A man hates all that sort of thing. He likes to have matters settled. Yet if woman were to do as he thinks he wants her to do, he wouldn't have any use for her. Her charm lies in her ability to be gracefully reluctant. As my friend Lorelei might say, it makes a woman "really intreeging."

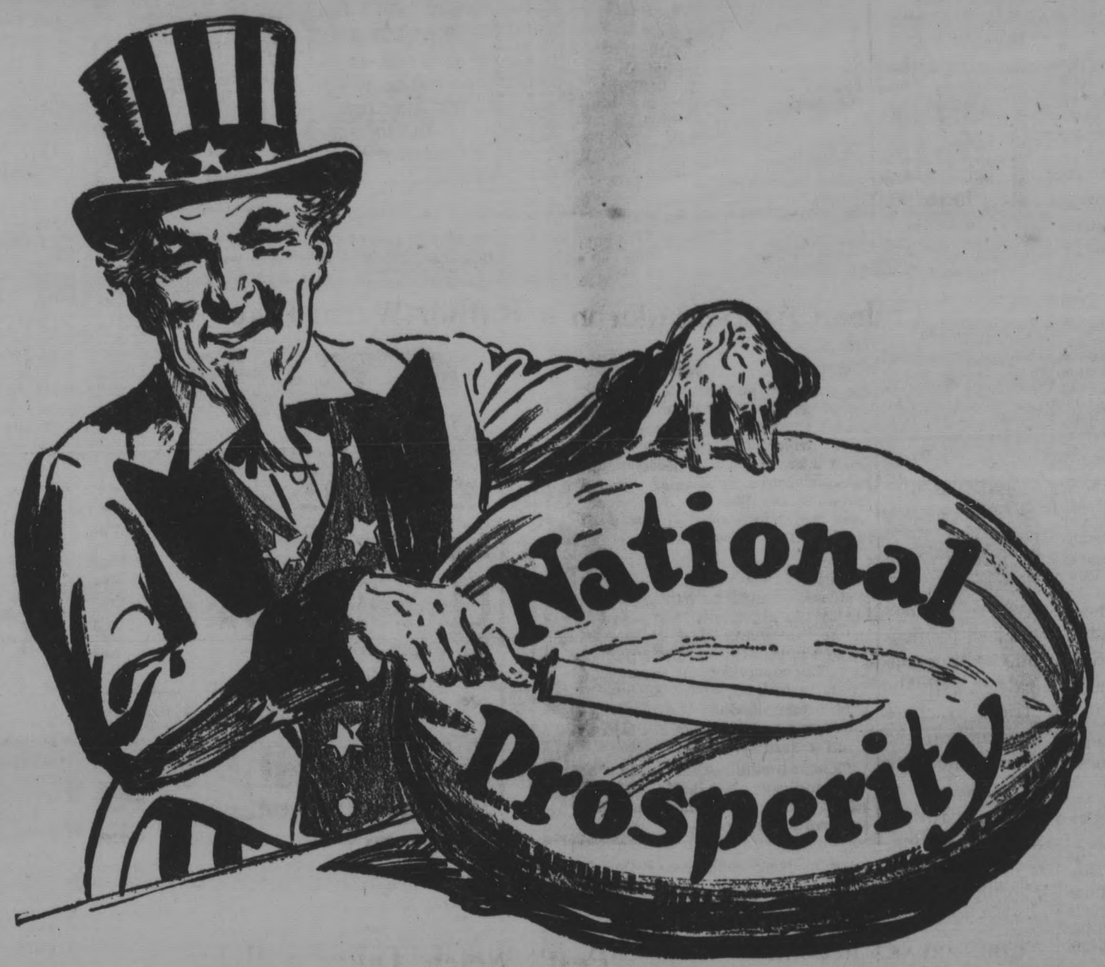
Sharing National Prosperity



HOW often we hear some one talk of "the good old days." Through the mist of the passing years, some people believe they see a rainbow with its pot of gold, that everyone shared in the "good old days." This picture is false—this imagined prosperity of the past is a myth.

The Good Old Days were never half as prosperous as the Present Days.

Today the average person is almost twice as well off as he was only a half dozen years ago. Prices are less now than they were then. Incomes are greater by a third. The average person, working—gainfully occupied—has an income of $2,000, while his predecessor of less than twenty years ago enjoyed less than half such an income.

We are a prosperous people in a prosperous country. Individual and family prosperity is evidenced by:

1. The increasing number of home owners.
2. Almost one auto to every family.
3. A radio in nearly every home.
4. Better household furnishings and equipment.
5. Crowded theaters, roads and amusement places.
6. More leisure for the worker because of shorter hours.
7. More students in schools and colleges.
8. Improved health and vital conditions in town and country.
9. Rapid growth of savings accounts.
10. Increase in insurance policies.
11. Increasing donations to charities and benevolences.

National prosperity guarantees that general conditions are sound. It signifies that exceptional opportunities are open to both individuals and communities. It further shows us, in the main, that the majority of towns and cities are prosperous; citizens are prosperous.

In order that all of us may share in this national prosperity, every resident of our community must diligently make an effort. The opportunity is ever present—the dice are not loaded—either for the average man or the average community.

It has been said that personal success is 10% inspiration and 90% perspiration. Likewise, community prosperity is largely the result of work—three quarters of it is a reward of business activity; only one quarter comes from investment. There is no substitute for work. By it we gain our full share of national prosperity.

With national prosperity increasing rapidly, a real opportunity awaits us as individuals and as a community—let us all take advantage of this opportunity by applying ourselves diligently to our tasks in

Abusing the "Charge Account" Idea

A burdensome tax rate seldom results from the necessary cost of government. It is the governmental luxuries, such as experimental luxuries, such as experiments in business, expensive "improvements" purchased before the community can afford them, duplication of effort, waste and incompetence that pile up the dollars on the annual tax bill.

Bond issues are easy to devise and pass. In many cases after what they bought has been out-moded or destroyed, citizens must pay for them with interest costs added.

At the present time the cost of government is the highest in history. Many states and cities are struggling under a burden of bonded debt that discourages industry and home building and results in stagnation. They are sad testimonials of abuse of the "charge account" idea.

Not all necessary improvements can be paid for in cash. But it is the part of wisdom to well consider the balance between debt and current income, whether an expenditure is for a person or a city.

The Tragic Record

As another summer draws toward its close the newspapers are crowded with reports of devastating fires. A dropped cigar or cigarette, a campfire incompletely extinguished—such little careless things as these have resulted in the destruction of magnificent forests, great factories and thousands of homes.

The most tragic part of it all is that the waste is entirely unnecessary. It is a matter of moments only to properly put out a fire or step on a burning cigar stub, or properly inspect a building for possible risks. Yet when these small tasks are left undone the result may be a conflagration that wrecks the work of years.

A little care and a little knowledge and a little energy on the part of our citizens would reduce our fire loss to a minimum. The fact that losses have been increasing, slowly, for two years, is hopeful but inconclusive. Our fire record remains a national disgrace, a black blot on our efficiency and prosperity.

Insurance and fire-resistant construction of buildings and fire patrols in our parks and forests, are necessary protections. But valuable as they are, they can never be a substitute for individual "fire carefulness. "And we pay each year for our carelessness with close to half a billion dollars, beside the inestimable loss in business and in human lives.

Serious Problems

THE automobile has brought much pleasure to the American people. But it has also brought one of our most serious problems. Every year thousands of people are killed and maimed in automobile accidents of various sorts. The majority of the casualities result from carelessness and incompetence. There are few unavoidable accidents.

It would seem a simple matter to enforce adequate driving laws, and when tried, it has proven that this reduces the accident rate. It would seem equally simple to withold operating licenses from persons too ignorant or too incompetent to drive a car with ordinary ability.

We are a careless people in many ways. And our lack of safety consciousness causes untold waste in lives and property. Until we follow the obvious course and teach prevention, modernize traffic laws and bar the reckless and incompetent from the highways, the toll of automomible deaths will mount.

Capital is the fruit of labor, and could not exist if labor had not first existed. Labor, therefore, deserves much the higher consideration.—Abraham Lincoln.

Labor Day

ON Monday will be celebrated a day set aside to the honor of labor, and as a recognition of the important place which labor plays in the economic structure of America. Labor Day is strictly a modern day, it could not have existed in ancient times; in mediaeval times or even in the early days of this country. For the place accorded to labor today was not recognized as its rightful heritage then—in fact, has never been accorded as its right until it was demanded by a strong and alert, active and intelligent laboring class.

The importance of labor has always been conceded, especially in times of emergency. "To labor is to pray." Zarathustra warned the agricultural Aryans when the Druck horsemen threatened to sweep down from barrens of Mongolia and wipe out the civilization of Persia.

But, however, much labor might have been considered as an important factor in the designs of empires and the wealth accumulating plans of nobles; the dignity of labor, and the right of the workman to respect and honor—these are the result of a united demand backed up by co-operation.

From early times workmen have joined themselves in groups or guilds to further various ends. But while these men co-operate with others in their own guild, to a certain extent at least, there was no co-operation between guilds; in fact, the bitterest hostility existed. There were in France at one time at least three branches of the stone masons trade, each organized into its own guild, and members of the different organizations would fight on sight wherever they met. Nor were the guilds organized particularly for the betterment of the working conditions of the workmen, but rather with the view of keeping secret the trade practices and processes so that workmen not of the guild might not be able to do the same work so well.

It was not until the idea of co-operation, not alone between men of the same calling, but between workmen of every line, became the ideal of labor that the laboring man attained his rightful place. The modern union, unlike the guild of old, is organized for the betterment of labor as a whole; not for the protection of the workmen in one line against workmen in another line; but for the protection of all workmen against the conditions which would place them again in the condition which was held by workers in early times, when he who worked was a serf, despised by him for whom he gave his efforts; respected by none, not even himself; working from dawn to dark; kicked, beaten and whipped; eating the scraps from the master's table; then in his old age, when his feeble efforts no longer were ample to work at the master's call, to crawl away in the barn yard and die among the other beasts, as little thought of as they.

Labor's position today depends, like the liberty of a free people, upon vigilance; a vigilance not only against the forces which are subversive to labor as organized, but to the force of ignorance and cupidity within the organization. Labor's demand for respect and honor must not be a demand of strength alone. The unions of today are earning the respect which they demand, by raising the ideals of labor. An enlightened, intelligent working class will not only demand the respect of the world, but will show its appreciation of that respect by being itself worthy and respectable.

The Graf Zeppelin

THE successful flight of the Graf Zeppelin around the world brings to the fore once more the first branch of aeronautics to be developed—lighter than air craft. So great has been the development of heavier than air craft within the past decade that we had almost lost sight of the importance of the other type of aircraft.

The great ship spanning oceans and crossing the frozen steppes of the north, the mighty Urals and linking continent with continent, however, inspires the imagination. The sight of a great machine cleaving its steady way through the clouds carries with it an impression of power which the light winged, speedy aeroplane does not arouse.

Aviation experts believe now, especially since the demonstration of the present ship, that while this type of machine will never come into the general use that the aeroplane is destined to do, still a great future is ahead of the lighter than air craft. Perhaps in a not distant day, ships such as the Zeppelin may be cleaving their way from city to city, from coast to coast with the same regularity as the steam ships with their cargoes furrow the oceans from port to port.

It seems but just that a checkered career should finish in a striped suit.

STATE AID FOR AGED NEXT YEAR

Blanks Now Ready For Filing With Government

By CLEM WHITAKER
(Capital News Bureau Service)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 29—California's new humanitarian program, the state-county old age pension system, will bring independence and freedom from want to at least 5,000 needy veterans of the work-a-day world during the first year of its administration.

Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, director of the State Department of Social Welfare, so estimated today in announcing that preparations are being speeded for the relief program and that every California county has pledged its co-operation.

San Mateo county old-timers, eligible for aid under the dollar-a-day pension, will be able to secure the formal application blanks from their county clerks or county supervisors by September 15, Mrs. Saylor declared. Drafting of the blanks has been completed and they are now being run off by the State Printing Office.

While she cautioned that the aid for the aged program does not become effective until January 1 of next year, the state director urged that prospective beneficiaries under the new law secure the necessary application forms as soon as they are available so that all preliminary work may be disposed of before the date for first allotments.

All essential information is provided for in the blanks, Mrs. Saylor said, which must be carefully filled out by the applicant, then sworn to before the county clerk and passed on by the county board of supervisors. The supervisors fix the amount of aid recommended for each applicant before sending the request to the State Department of Social Welfare for final action.

Though preliminary reports to the state indicate that some 5,000 eligibles will seek aid, many of these applicants are partially self-supporting, Mrs. Saylor stated, and will not require the maximum allowance of $30 per month.

One of the major points which must be cleared up before aid can be granted, the state official warned is "proof of age." If birth records are unavailable, this may be established by marriage licenses, hospital records, voting registers, or other legal records.

Some of the stark tragedy of old age, battling to eke out an existence against overwhelming odds, come to light in efforts to establish proof of the age of applicants, according to the state official. In many cases, it has been found that old people, in their desperate fight to get work, have misrepresented their age, dyed their hair black and gone to other extremes to "look young." The false age records now represent one of their greatest handicaps in getting state-county assistance, as all eligibles must be over 70.

"But this is not an insurmountable obstacle," asserted Mrs. Saylor. "Old people need not fear to tell us frankly they they have misrepresented their age to employers. We will do everything in our power, together with the county officials, in clearing the records and assuring them of the aid which they are rightfully entitled."

Miss Linda Mullen and Miss Olga Heiner will return next week from an extended vacation spent at Monte Rio.

James Hedge, who was so far recovered from his recent illness with typhoid fever as to be about the streets, sufferd a slight relapse this week and is again confined to his bed.

Mrs. A. J. Beer entertained a number of her friends at a watermelon party Thursday night. Games were played and the evening thoroughly enjoyed by all those present.

Edward Genochio will enter the College of Pharmacy affiliated with the University of California next week. Edward is a bright young man, and will no doubt make a success of his chosen profession.

The children of the Congregational church enjoyed a watermelon party at the church last night. All kinds of games were indulged in, and the little folks will long remember Friday night as a very pleasant occasion.

John Nelson will have his mother's home on Mound street entirely refitted during the next few months. The house will be replastered and additional rooms added to the structure. George Allen has taken the contract to do the carpenter work.

James E. VanCourt is making up a party to go to the Summit on a huckleberrying expedition next week. The huckleberries are now ripe, though they are not so plentiful as in past years.

An invitation has been issued to the many friends of Rev. Dr. A. A. Gibbons to be present at the Methodist church this evening to participate in a farewell reception to the reverend gentleman. During his pastorate here, Dr. Gibbons has won the confidence and love of all with whom he has come in contact. With tomorrow's sermon, Dr. Gibbons brings to a close his service in the ministry.

No New Models In Hudson Line

Definite announcement that there will be no new models this year in the Hudson-Essex line was made yesterday by E. G. Hinds, the dealer here.

This statement came as the result of numerous inquiries and silences persistent rumors that the Hudson Motor Car Company would soon introduce new models embodying radical changes over the present series.

"I have just received positive assurance from the factory that present models will be continued through out 1929," he said in making the announcement. "This confirms Hudson's announced policy of introducing its new product at the beginning of the new year, exhibiting them first at the New York National Automobile Show.

"Furthermore, no price changes are contemplated in either Essex or Hudson.

"There would have to be some radical upheavel in the industry to cause the Hudson Motor Car Company to cut prices. The factory advises that no such action is contemplated and that there are no signs to indicate such action would take place this year.

"As a matter of fact, Hudson products are enjoying unprecedented sales popularity. More Hudsons were delivered in the first seven months of 1929 than in all of 1928. The factory's total production is nearly 37 per cent ahead of last year. The unfilled Hudson orders indicate that production of Greater Hudsons will continue at capacity for the balance of the year.

"Further confirmation of Hudson-Essex price stability is seen in the fact that this company recently readjusted its Essex price schedule by increasing the cost. When the current models were announced, there was a sensational lowering of prices, both as to actual outlay and through the inclusion of additional expensive equipment. Prices were set to anticipate the usual fall flurry of new models and price cuts.

"There continues a definite shortage of Hudsons throughout the country. Capacity production has been maintained throughout the year, yet at a time when output usually slackens, the factory continues at full speed. In California, for instance, Hudson sales showed a gain of 59 per cent for July over the same month of last year, in spite of the fact that the new models have been out since January.

"Demand reflects anything but a price reduction for Hudson-Essex and official information from the factory stating there will be no new models this year should effectively silence rumors to the contrary."

Child's Custody Given By Court To Arizona Man

The checkered career of little 6-year-old Betty Nadine Anderson was on Wednesday given another twist by the fate which seems to have dogged her few years. By an order issued by a court in Arizona, the custody of the little girl was granted to Frank Marshall of Casa Grande, Arizona, who took her from the detention home here amid a scene which would have done justice to a motion picture.

With the girl when Marshall took her from the detention home were Marshall's former wife, now Mrs. Donald Haremza, and Mrs. Haremza's first husband, Walter Anderson. Bety was adopted from an orphanage when a baby by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who were later divorced, and Mrs. Anderson was given the custody of the child. Later she remarried, marying Marshall. They were also divorced, and the Arizona court gave the custody of the child to Marshall. When he came for the child, his wife, now married to Haremza, had left.

Marshall swore out a warrant on a charge of kidnapping, and later Haremza and his wife were arrested in Los Angeles. Action on this charge is still pending.

When Anderson, who was the husband of the present Mrs. Haremza when the baby was adopted, read of the case in the newspaper, he came to California, and intimates that he may seek to have control of the child taken from Marshall and granted to him.

All three men were present when Marshall took the litle girl from the detention home here. In order to avoid what threatened to be a general riot, Miss Kreiss, matron of the home, asked Sheriff McGrath to be present and prevent any disturbance. When the girl was taken away Mrs. Haremza fainted and had to be cared for by Miss Kreiss.

Kiwanians Given Demonstration of Boy Scouts' Work

Demonstration of Boy Scout craft were given by two local troops of Boy Scouts Wednesday evening for the benefit of members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club and their sons. The occasion was a father and son dinner by the club held beneath the trees on the Sequoia Union High School campus.

The chairman of the meeting was C. M. Doxsee. Demonstrations were made by troops 105 and 141 of the Boy Scouts. Bert Werder, one of the county scout executives, gave an interesting talk on the training given boys in the Scout movement. An acordian solo was played by Robert Shaffer, a member of Troop 143.

Charles G. Lambert added a novel feature to the evening by his playing on the concertina which served in place of a piano as an accompaniment to the club's singing.

Two Are Fined For Disturbing Peace

Fines of $10 each were paid by Robert Brown, colored insurance man of San Francisco, and Mrs. Buela Harris, also colored, following an accident here Monday. Both Brown and Mrs. Harris were charged with disturbing the peace and with resisting arrest when they started an argument with Officers Henry Mengels and Sylvester Douglas, who investigated the accident. The pair was hailed before Judge Edward I. McAuliffe, who levied the fines.

REAL ESTATE FACTS

LOOKING INTO REAL ESTATE ....

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The front porch is passing, the old fashioned carpet is seen no more, ceiling heights vary in different parts of the country, bungalows are still popular, American architecture is improving, and dining rooms remain firmly entrenched in the average American home, according to James S. Taylor, Acting Chief of the Division of Building and Housing of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards in its weekly article on subjects of interest to home owners quotes Mr. Taylor on modern trends in home building; and Mr. Taylor's observations are based on a survey just made by the Housing Division in 38 typical American cities. Most of the homes examined were of the five or six room type.

The value of the radio in toning up the atmosphere of American homes cannot be over-estimated, especially in the life of a family having young people, says Mr. Taylor. The radio is keeping people at home and is giving parents a chance to become acquainted with the friends of their children.

The built-in garage has descended from the very expensive house to be found in the medium priced field; and on streets where there is any considerable amount of automobile traffic, families are living more and more in the back of their houses. A sunparlor at the rear of the house is fairly common, says the Housing Bureau chief, and the rear living room is no longer a curiosity.

Moving Picture Bathrooms

The bathroom has become a conspicuous feature in many of the new small homes, says Mr. Taylor He cites a small row house selling for less than sixthousand dollars, that looked fit for a millionaire screen star. It had a floor of black and white tile, buff colored wainscoting, special wall paper depicting sea scenes, and a built-in bathtub in an alcove. The bathtub on legs is going out of style even in the lower priced house.

In industrial housing projects, like those in southern mill towns, considerable numbers of houses are erected without all the modern features; but an increasing proportion of such houses in North Carolina having running water and electricity.

"In some rapidly growing communities, such as Oklahoma City and Flint, we found that lower priced houses are being built than in most of the other cities, probably because there is not so great a supply of second-hand houses to meet the needs of families in low income groups," says Mr. Taylor.

"The number of houses erected that are distinctly faulty in construction seems to have diminished considerably during the past six years.

"The lowest priced houses now being built in quantity in the larger cities today are of five and six rooms, with one-story construction apparently predominating for the five room, and two-story for the six room size.

"The six room, twostory house is favored more in eastern cities where as in cities of the middle and far west, the five-room bungalow is in the lead in the lowest priced groups. In the latter cities, however, the two story house usually has six rooms.

"American domestic architecture is on the mend. The more expensive houses are usually designed by architects who specialize in that kinud of work and are acknowledged to be the best in the world. More operative builders appreciate the importance of good architectural service and employ architects on their staff or as consultants.

Newspapers Have Helped

"The Architects Small House Bureau, an offshot of the American Institute of Architects, has done a great deal to set higher standards in the small house field. Its work, together with that of material manufacturers and some of the commercial plan services, has interested more architects in the design of small houses, a specialty in itself. This has all been encouraged by the wider publication and use of stock plans. Building trade papers and home building periodicals, which have had a striking increase in circulation during the past few years, and the home building pages of newspapers, have done much to encourage interest in good design and to cultivate public taste.

"Probably more small houses of good architecture are being put up now than for a century past.

"The front porch, a more or less distinctive American institution, is rapidly going out of style. Fewer and fewer people care to watch endless streams of passing motor cars, and the rear of the house is coming more and more into its own.

"It is only during the past few years that the designer has had to consider the fact that practically every owner will want a place on his lot to house one or more motor cars. The built-ingarage has worked its way down from the more expensive houses into the medium priced field.

Dining Room Still Here

Some prophets foretold the passing of the dining room in the small house, arguing that, being used only two or three times a day, it was the most expensive space in the house. A good breakfast nook, well planned arrangements for serving meals at one end of an enlarged living room, so that said, would suffice, but there is no proof yet that they were right. In our survey we found many small houses where a breakfast nook was added but almost none where the dining room was omitted.

"Ceiling heights are usually greater in the south than in the north, presumably because they are more comfortable in warmer climates, and on account of custom.

"The radio is doing its part to keep people at home, and may have some connection with the fairly frequent provision of sunparlors and sun porches, which can be used as a second down-stairs living room. What such an addition can mean in the life of a family containing young people is hard to over-estimate. It can tone up the entire atmosphere of the home, develop individuality in children, and determine whether or not the parents will have the opportunity to know their children's friends.

New Floor Coverings

"Types of floor coverings have been in evolution ever since the passing of the old fashioned carpet. Hardwood floors downstairs and a good grade of matched flooring upstairs are usual, with linoleum common in the kitchen. These types help to make dusting easy.

"The popularity of bungalows in the lowest priced class of detached dwellings seems to continue in spite of the arguments of those who maintain that a family gets more for its money in a two-story house than in a single story dwelling."

Mr. Taylor says that one of the most important and recent trends to have a marked effect on home building is the increasing vogue for color. He says that this has a good and commendable side, but that it also has its dangers. He points out that if a man paints his house or his roof the wrong color, he can easily repaint them, but warns that changing the color of certain materials means actual replacement, if the wrong tint has been selected.

High School Notes

By ANDREW BRIGHT

A new Fageol motor coach has been purchased for the high school, and delivery on it has been promised some time this week. Besides serving as a regular school bus, the new new Fageol will also be used as a means of transportation for the football team. This makes a total of seven buses now in use in the high school

Practice for both varsity and 130's football is well under way. Over forty boys are out for the varsity team, under the direction of Coaches Raymond Dimick and Leonard Casanova, while thirty light weights have signed up with Coach A. V. Carleton for the 130-lb team.

The scholarship society will hold its annual election of officers at the first meeting, which will be held today. This society is composed of the students who have made the best records in their studies in the preceeding term. Last year over sixty qualified to be members this term.

To accomodate visitors to the school and to promote a general feeling of good will, a student will be stationed at the main entrance of the building. He will direct or give information to anyone that desires it.

Lightweight basketball started on Tuesday under the direction of Coach Frank Griffin. Over forty-five boys have turned out for this sport, among them are several veterans of last year's team.

Try-outs were held Wednesday for Treble Clef members. Mr. Otis M. Carrington, head of the music department, is the adviser of this club. Over 20 girls tried out for the choral society, which is the oldest organization in Sequoia.

Over 100 girls have turned out for hockey this season. Mrs. Genevieve Robertson is the coach for this sport.

Mr. Charles Brown has succeeded Miss Anna Neff as principal of the Sequoia Union Night School. Miss Neff has been principal for the last eight years. Physical education and English for foreigners are among the most popular coures. Commercial subjects are also taught. So far over 100 have enrolled for the term.

STRIKINGLY NEW FEATU RES FOUND IN 1930 GRAHAM-PAIGE CARS

In this one illustration may be seen many of the striking features o f all models of the 1930 Graham-Paige cars recently introduced. The photograph shows the driving com partment of the 612 two-door sedan, the lowest priced car of the line. Besides the new three-spoke steering wheel and the clear vision instrument board, note the molded rubber floor boards, the rubber treads on t he pedals and on the treadle-type accelerator, the aluminum floor plate with close-fitting rubber grommets surrounding the adjustable pedals and the steering column, and the ad justable folding seats (used in the two-door sedan only). In four-door models, the full-width front s eat is adjustable but has a solid non-folding back. In the larger cars, the instrument dials are similarly m ounted in individual frames, but in clude an electric clock; while the instrument board itself has a nar row chromium bead at its lower ed ge, and is handsomely paneled.

RIVERSIDES

Why you can save $2 to $15 on every tire you buy at WARD'S

MILLIONS OF MOTORISTS, all over the world, already ride on RIVERSIDE Tires—and still more millions soon will.

You will agree that .... with the Super-Service RIVERSIDE guaranteed for a minimum of 30,000 miles—the First-Quality RIVERSIDE guaranteed for a minimum of 16,000 miles—and the WARDWEAR for 10,000 .... these tires simply must be tires of quality!

And then—on comparing RIVERSIDE prices with many other high-grade makes that are not officially guaranteed for any specific mileage—you are astonished to find that at Ward's your saving per tire ranges from $2 to $15!

It's surprising. You are frankly puzzled. You discovered, long ago, that there's no such thing as "getting something for nothing." Therefore, when you find, in tires, high quality, provable quality and guaranteed quality .... coupled with prices so low they seem to contradict all that .... you "wonder," don't you?

Instead of cutting quality in any shape or manner, we merely cut out most of the in-between profits of ordinary distribution! Thus you are protected at both ends of your transaction: on Quality, by the guarantees .... on Economy, by the unusual savings of Ward's low prices.

Do you know of—or need—any better reasons for putting Montgomery Ward & Co. tires on your car? .... Or any better arguments than these facts proving why you save $2 to $15 on every tire you buy?

ANTONIO CONTI, Plaintiff

All Persons Claiming Any Interest In, or Lien Upon, the real Property Herein Described or Any Part Thereof, Defendants

ALBERT A. MOLFINO, Attorney for Plaintiff, Colma, San Mateo County, California.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

To all persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, defendants, greeting:

You are hereby notified to appear and answer the complaint of ANTONIO CONTI, the above named plaintiff filed with the Clerk of the above-entitled Court and County, within three months after the first publication of this Summons, and to set forth what interest or lien, if any, you have in or upon that certain real property or any part thereof, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

PARCEL 1

Lots numbered two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), six (6), seven (7), eight (8), nine (9), ten (10) and eleven (11) in block number two (2) and lots numbers two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5), seven (7), eight (8), nine (9), ten (10), eleven (11) and twelve (12) in block number twelve (12) as laid down and designated upon the Map entitled "Map of the Lands, City Extension Homestead Association, situated in San Mateo County", filed October 15, 1870, in the office of the County Recorder of said County of San Mateo, in Book "D", page 44 of original Maps.

PARCEL 2

Lots Numbers Two (2), Three (3), Four (4), Five (5), six (6), Seven (7), Eight (8), Nine (9), Ten (10), and Eleven (11) in Block Number Three (3) and Lots Numbers One (1), Two (2), Three (3), Four (4), Five (5), Six (6), Seven (7), Eight (8), Nine (9), Ten (10), Eleven (11) and Twelve (12) in Block Number Thirteen (13) as said Lots and Blocks are laid down and designated upon the Map entitled "Map of the Lands, City Extension Homestead Association, situated in San Mateo County," filed October 15, 1870, in the office of the County Recorder of said County of San Mateo, in Book "D" page 44 of original maps.

Excepting therefrom, the right of way granted to Spring Valley Water Company, a corporation, by Charles L. Patton by deed dated July 1, 1907, and filed for record in the office of the County Recorder of San Mateo County on July 5th, 1907, and recorded therein in Book 135 of Deeds at page 336.

And you are hereby notified that, unless you so appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: That it be adjudged that the plaintiff is the owner of said property in fee simple absolute; that his title to said property be established and quieted; that the Court ascertain and determine all estates, rights, titles, interests and claims in and to said property, and every part thereof, whether the same be legal or equitable, present or future, vested or contingent, and whether the same consists of mortgages or liens of any description; that plaintiff recover his costs herein and have such other and further relief as may be meet in the premises.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of this Court.

Dated August 22nd, 1929.

ELIZABETH M. KNEESE, (SEAL) Clerk.

COMMUNITIES COMBINE FOR PROGRESS

Bay Counties Form Organization To Aid Growth

A committee of "49" was authorized by the general committee of the Bay Area Metropolitan District, when members gathered Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce to hear the first report of the committee of seven which had been appointed to work out some plan for closer unity among the various communities about the bay.

The committee of seven, consisting of President Almer M. Newhall, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; President E. B. Field of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce; E. B. Hinman, president of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce; George P. Keller of Martinez; T. J. O'Hara, president of the Vallejo Chamber of Commerce; Harry G. Ridgway, president of Marvelous Marin Association, and Frazier Reed of San Jose, reported that a committee of seven was inadequate to handle successfully such a big problem to the satisfaction of all and that they had a plan to submit.

After President Newhall had called the meeting together and read a resolution adopted by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors approving the untiy of the communities, he turned the meeting over to President Field, who said:

"The Committee of Seven is submitting a plan and we ask your authority to adopt—that is, that a committee of seven from each county, making a total of 49, to act as a governing body of associated organizations. The Committee of Seven you named. I am going to submit to you six addition names from each county. We have tried to get representatives from each community who will be helpful to the original organization and carry this through to its success and we ask your authority to enlarge your original committee to that extent."

President Field moved that the committee be enlarged. It was seconded and carried unanimously that a committee of "49" be appointed.

The members of the committee of "49" from San Mateo county are as follows:

E. B. Hinman, secretary-manager Redwood City Chamber of Commerce; Chas. H. Merrill, Holbrook-Merrill & Stetson; Henry C. Maier, Bank of Italy, Burlingame; Sam D. Merk, publisher, San Mateo; E. E. Bramble, publisher, South San Francisco; Marsden S. Blois, San Mateo; Fred H. Drake, president San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce.

Following the reading of the committee, T. J. O'Hara made a motion that the San Francisco Board of Supervisors be thanked for their resolution. The motion carried.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS No. 3

Pursuant to statute, and to the resolution of the Sanitary Board of the Belmont Sanitary District directing this notice, said sanitary board invites sealed proposals or bids for doing the following work in said sanitary district, to-wit:

Section 1. That Ralston Avenue from a point therein 45 feet westerly from the westerly line of the lands owned by Alexander Sanitarium Co., to the northeasterly terminus of said avenue as same is shown upon that certain map entitled "Port San Francisco," Subdivision No. 1, filed in the office of the Recorder of San Mateo County August 8, 1927, in Volume 16 of Maps at pages 26 to 28 inclusive; and that certain right of way or easement for sanitary sewer purposes, being a strip of land ten feet wide, being five feet on each side of the following center line, to-wit, beginning at a point in the aforementioned northeasterly terminus of Ralston Avenue, said point bearing north 42° west 10.04 feet and north 42° 50' east 20.08 feet from the most northerly corner of Lot 62, Block 4, as shown on said map of Port San Francisco; thence from said point of beginning north 0° 36' 14" east 1075 feet, more or less, to the center of an unnamed creek tributary to Belmont or Angelo Slough; be improved as follows, to-wit:

(a) By the construction therein of hydraulic cement concrete sanitary sewer with hydraulic cement joints;

(b) By the construction therein of red burnt brick sewer manholes capped with cast iron frames and covers and provided with cast iron steps;

(c) By the construction therein of 6"x6" redwood piles complete with redwood caps, headers, standards and planking;

(d) By the construction therein of a redwood plank tide gate complete, with rubber facing.

Section 2. All of said improvements are to be constructed at the places and in the particular locations, of the form, size and dimensions and the materials and to the lines and grades and at the elevations as shown and delineated upon the plans, profiles and specifications therefor hereinafter mentioned.

Section 3. There is excepted from the work above described any of such work already done to line and grade, and there is further excepted therefrom any work marked "Excepted" or "Existing," or shown not to be done on said plans, profiles and specifications.

Section 4. Said Board does hereby adopt and establish as the official grades for said work the grades and elevations shown upon said plans, profiles and specifications. All such grades and elevations are referred to the District official base and datum established October 20th, 1925.

Section 5. All of said work and improvements shall be done in accordance with the plans, profiles and specifications made therefor by the Engineer of said Sanitary District and adopted as the plans, profiles and specifications for said work and improvement by Resolution Adopting Plans, Profiles and Specifications No. 3, passed and adopted by the Sanitary Board of said Sanitary District on the 6th day of August, 1929, which plans, profiles and specifications are now on file in the office of the Secretary of said Sanitary Board reference to which is hereby made for a particular description of said work and for further particulars.

And whereas said contemplated work and improvement in the opinion of said sanitary board is of more than local or ordinary public benefit, said sanitary board makes the expenses of said work and improvement chargeable upon an assessmnt district, which said board in its resolution of intention No. 3, passed August 6, 1929, declared to be the district benefited by said work and improvement and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, and which said assessment district is situated within said sanitary district, in the County of San Mateo, State of California, and is bounded and described as fully set forth in said resolution of intention, reference to which is made for the boundaries thereof and a description thereof.

Notice is hereby given that serial bonds to represent unpaid assessments and bear interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum will be issued hereunder in the manner provided by the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, as amended, the last installment of which bonds shall mature nine years from the second day of July next succeeding ten months from their date.

Said resolution of intention was adopted pursuant to the provisions of that certain act of the legislature of the State of California designated as the "Improvement Act of 1911" approved April 7, 1911, as amended, and future proceedings hereunder shall be taken and had thereunder, except as hereinabove otherwise provided for the issuance of said serial bonds.

Reference is hereby made to resolution of Intention No. 3 of said sanitary board declaring its intention to order said work to be done, for further particulars, which resolution of intention is on file in the office of the secretary of said sanitary board.

Reference is hereby made to said specifications for said work, also posted.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a check payable to the Belmont Sanitary District, certified by a responsible bank for an amount which shall not be less than ten per cent of the aggregate of the proposal, or by a bond for the said amount and so payable, signed by the bidder and two sureties, who shall justify before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double the said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions.

Said sealed proposals or bids shall be delivered to the secretary of said sanitary board on or before Wednesday, the 11th day of September, 1929, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P. M. said time being not less than ten days from the time of the first publication and posting of said notice. Bids will be opened on said day and hour.

Dated: August 23rd, 1929.

D. W. CALLEN, (SEAL)

Secretary of said Sanitary Board.

When you lift the receiver

Behind your Telephone stretches a wire fifty million miles long.

These miles of wire and their connecting equipment must always be in readiness for the possible moment when you will desire to talk with anybody, anywhere.

Your wish at present may be to talk only with a friend in the next block, or a business house half a mile away.

But when you lift your receiver, 1,800,000 telephones on the Pacific Coast—19 million in the United States—are ready for your call.

"Come on dad, mother is ready!"

Plenty of hot water the instant you want it, saves your time for pleasure

Quickly mother's hands finish the housework. She saves countless minutes by having plenty of hot water without bother or waiting. Each week she has 4 to 6 hours more time for motoring or other pleasures.

There is no need of watching the automatic gas water heater. You can have plenty of hot water day and night. It costs less than one-fifth of a cent per gallon—the lowest cost of any method for heating water in the home.

Details on replacing your old water heater with a new automatic gas water heater can be obtained at a dealer's store or by telephoning our local office.

Jack Quinn Plans to Retire

TWENTY-NINE years in baseball is enough for one man, says Jack Quinn, who throws twisters for the Atheltics.

Jack, who was christened John Quinn Picus, was forty-four years old July 5. That is the way the records have it. Jack looks like he might be fifty. Yet he throws like he was twenty-five.

Anyway Jack has announced his retirement effective at the end of this season.

Quinn, after breaking into professional baseball in the Pennsylvania state league in 1903 first hit the majors with the Yankees in 1909. Four years later he was sent to Rochester. The Braves had him for a few moments in 1913, and then Jack jumped to Baltimore of the Federal league for a two-year hitch.

When the outlaw league blew up in 1915 Quinn headed westward and joined the Vernon club of the Pacific coast league. He was there in 1916, 1917 and part of 1918, going to the White Sox when the coast loop suspended because of the war.

Jack Quinn.

Jack finished the season there and found himself the center of an argument between the White Sox and the Yankees. He was awarded to the latter and remained with that club through 1921.

Traded to the Red Sox in 1922, the veteran played there through 1924 and then went to the Athletics on waivers early in the 1925 season.

Jack, at forty-three, had the best year of his career in 1928, when he won 18 and lost 7.

Until this year Jack had played sixteen years in the majors, winning 170 and losing 142 games. He was in 462 games and pitched 2,641 innings.

All of this time Quinn played in but one world series. That was with the Yankees in 1921. Jack pitched four innings, allowed eight hits and two bases on balls and was credited with a defeat.

Pilot's Faith Justified in Pitcher Eppa Rixey

According to Eppa Rixey of the Cincinnati Reds, a manager's good, old-fashioned hunch will sometimes result in the winning of a game that, even with the best of master-minding and most profound of psychological manuevers, might have been lost. An illustration in point being when Rixey was pitching against the Dodgers in Brooklyn not so long ago.

"In the first inning," Rixey told us, "I was touched for five hits, off which the Dodgers made four runs. They seemed to be able to hit everything I threw over and I was actually beginning to think that I never would succeed in getting a man out.

"But finally the inning ended somehow and during our time at bat at the start of the second we got a man on second and third and, with two down, I came up. It certainly seemed to me I would be taken out for a pinch-hitter, but when I started for the plate Manager Hendricks never said a word and let me go.

"As I walked up to the plate I still couldn't see why he kept me in the game. I certainly looked bad in that first inning and, added to that, we needed those two runs on the bases in the worst possible way.

"But that's where Hendricks' hunch that I had a good game in my arm that day proved right, for I not only made a single and scored those two runs, but when I got back on the mound I settled down and allowed only two hits for the rest of the game, which we won, 5 to 4."

Beaman Is Winner

O. G. Beaman, Cornell, winning the two-mile race in the international dual track and field meet at Travers island, where Oxford-Cambridge and Princeton-Cornell teams met.

Old "Slim" Sallee Was Best With Bases Full

Old "Slim" Sallee, who pitched his last ball in the major league back in 1921, was never known to be worried by base hits and, if anything, pitched better ball when the bases were full. A typical Sallee game would net the opposition anywhere from nine to twelve hits per game, and once he even went so far as to turn in a 13-hit, one-run game.

Naturally his manager knew that hits had the effect of spurring Sallee to his utmost efficiency and so, consequently, remained unworried by the barrage that generally took place when his ace was on the mound.

Umpire's Signals

Years ago the umpire tried to make every fan hear his not-by-any-too-melodious voice, from grand stands to bleachers. This was difficult. No applicant but a strong-lunged individual was considered for the job those days. Today the umps use arms, head and thumb signals. Umpire Carpenter was the first to use his right and left arms to convey to the world whether it was a ball or a strike the batsman had. Every true fan will understand the movement instantly.

The Missions finished the first half of the Coast league season four games ahead of San Francisco. Earlier in the campaign the Missions were a dozen games ahead of their neighbors.

LEGION'S WORLD SERIES ON RADIO

Will Broadcast Games Play by Play in Big Hook-Up.

Dan Sowers, national director of the junior baseball program of the American Legion which this year has enrolled more than 300,000 boys, has been informed by John W. Ellwood of New York, vice president of the National Broadcasting company, that the Legion's world series to be played in Louisville, Ky., September 4, 5 and 6, will be broadcast play by by play in a national hook-up, direct from the grand stand.

Graham McNamee, the famous sport announcer, will do the broadcasting. Arrangements also are being made for Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, to address the youth of the country preceding the games.

"The Legion's baseball competition has taken its place in interest nationally along with other sports which attract universal interest," Sowers said. "Not only will 300,000 boys throughout the country be vitally interested in the world series, but also their relatives, friends, and the many varied organizations which are represented by teams they sponsor in the program.

"In some of the larger communities, organizations other than the Legion have entered the Legion program by sponsoring leagues of boys' teams, and their championship team in the final analysis, has been in competition for city, county, district or higher honors, all under Legion supervision."

The national tournaments to decide the two teams which will play in the world series begin the first week in August. These are the regional tournaments, six west of the Mississippi and six east. Each team in the regional tournaments is the championship team of a state. The regional champion teams then play in two sectional tournaments, and it is the two sectional champion teams which participate in the world series to be held in Louisville.

Labor
SHALL you complain who feed the world?
Who clothe the world?
Who house the world?
Shall you complain who are the world?
Of what the world may do?
As from this hour
You use your power,
The world must follow you!
THE world's life hangs on your right hand!
Your strong right hand,
Your skilled right hand.
You hold the whole world in your hand,
See to it what you do!
Or dark or light,
Or wrong or right,
The world is made by you!
THEN rise as you ne'er rose before!
Nor hoped before!
Nor dared before!
And show as ne'er was shown before
The power that lies in you.
Stand all as one!
See justice done!
Believe, and Dare, and Do!

Philadelphia Claims First Trade Unions

Philadelphia is nationally and even internationally famous as being the premier city of the United States. Its fame in scientific and industrial accomplishments is as wide as the world, and its great and glorious history is something that no other city in the land can ever take away from it. It has a record in "firsts" that is magnificent, the list published by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, containing nearly 50 premier events of national importance, which have, unquestionably, given this city its very enviable reputation. It is generally known, of course, that Philadelphia was the first capital of the nation; that the first paper and carpet mills were started here, and that the first convention ever held by manufacturers in this country was held in this city. It is also well known that the first law and medical schools were established here and that the first grand opera was produced here. These and many other of the "firsts" associated with the illustrious history of Philadelphia are well known throughout the country, but we regret to say in connection with this mention of "firsts" that only a few trade unionists in this city seem to know that it was in their own historic city that this country's first trade unions were established.

Historians Support Claim.

Those who may be inclined to scoff and pooh-pooh our claim should consult the history written by John R. Commons and his associates, who are regarded by the International Labor News service, published at Washington, as "the leading authorities on the subject." The title of their book is "The History of Labor in the United States," and in it they make this very significant assertion:

"We place the beginning of the American labor movement in the year 1827 at Philadelphia. In that year and place American wage earners for the first time joined together as a class, regardless of trade lines, in a contest with employers."

Workers Lifted From Slavery.

No nobler movement for the uplift of humanity and for bettering the living conditions of working people was ever inaugurated than was the movement first started in Philadelphia in 1827. Prior to that year workers were treated like slaves. They were prevented by law from organizing and forming trade unions. They slaved 12, 14, 16 and 18 hours every day and often seven days a week. Their wages—it makes one laugh—their wages were whatever pittance their bosses saw fit to dole out to them. Socially, they were despised.

But now—NOW—a union working man can and does hold high his head. No longer is he socially ostracized. He owns the house he lives in, and probably also owns an automobile. He is financially able to dress his wife respectably and give his children a good education. He is free, independent and prosperous NOW—all due to trade unionism, a movement first started right here in Philadelphia in 1827.

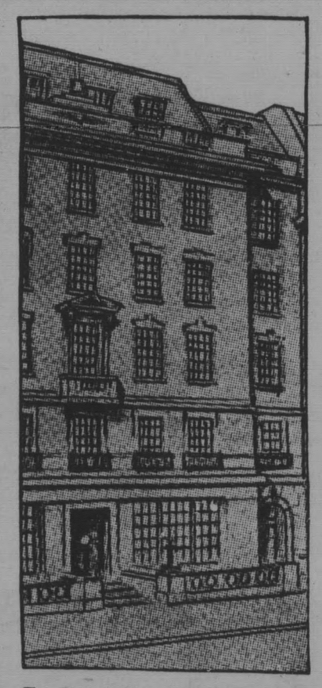
HEADQUARTERS OF BRITISH UNIONISTS



The General Federation of British Trade Unions, for years in offices in Hamilton house, Bidborough street, London, has decided to build, and has purchased a site within 200 yards of its old offices, has had plans prepared and is ready to begin construction on what is known as the "Woburn Lodge" site, Woburn place. The Federation expects to occupy its new quarters by May, 1930. The illustration shows the proposed front elevation.

Labor the Foundation Upon Which Rests the Stability of the American Republic

Labor day is an American institution. Its general observance throughout the United States is peculiarly fitting. The greatest democratic experiment in the world, the American republic, is the product of labor; its success and perpetuity depend upon the principle that every able-bodied person owes the duty to do something, to make his contribution to the general welfare. For our country has no idle class.

This day is a legal holiday in all the states of the Union, in the District of Columbia, Porto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska. That is a tremendous field for a demonstration, big enough to be seen the world over, and it is of no little significance for its bearing on the future of civilization that the lands that thus signally honor labor are in the eyes of the world the most successful, prosperous and powerful.

The American Labor day stands in striking contrast with the May day labor celebrations of Europe. It has about it a suggestion of virile confidence and self-respect. American labor long has known its worth and never has felt the necessity of putting itself upon the defensive. In America no man need be apologetic because he works; he needs to explain if he does not. Accordingly, Labor day is not the peculiar property of some group, but is the holiday which recognizes that this great country of ours with all its glorious achievements, ideals and purposes is a vindication of a whole people's pride in labor.—Detroit News.

POULTRY

CARE OF PULLETS DECIDES PROFITS

Mash, Grain and Clean Water Should Be Available.

The care of pullets makes a big difference in next year's profits or losses, says L. M. Hurd, of the New York state college of agriculture. After the pullets are twelve weeks of age both mash and grain should be constantly available in separate outdoor hoppers. Fresh clean water should be frequently provided if there is not a natural supply in the field. Unlimited grass, clover, or alfalfa range and shade, are essential for best growth.

The ability to lay is inherited, and thus depends more on breeding than on feeding; but pullets should be well developed in body before they start to lay. If the pullets seem to mature too rapidly, do not feed them wholly on grain to slow up their inclination to lay; anything that checks laying is also apt to stunt permanently the growth of the birds. Feed a mash along with scratch grain, as it is more complete in protein minerals and vitamines.

For proper fleshing at maturity it is sometimes advisable temporarily to reduce the amount of animal protein—meat scraps, milk, etc—in the mash, or to limit the amount of mash fed. The former plan is better, as it allows the birds a better chance to obtain more of the minerals and vitamines, which they need. To feed large amounts of scratch grain and mash low in protein for about a month before the pullets normally mature, tends to make them complete their development in better flesh. Experiments at the Cornell university experiment station show that pullets need a substantial reserve of fat when they begin to lay, for satisfactory production later.

Production of Quality Eggs During Summer

Summer is usually hard on the production of good quality eggs. However, there is no reason why good quality eggs cannot be produced and marketed in summer. Commercial poultrymen can do it; owners of farm flocks can, too, if attention is given to a few important points.

All male birds removed from the pens so the eggs that are laid are infertile is the first thing, since infertile eggs will not spoil so quickly as fertile eggs. Clean eggs is the next. It is always a temptation to wash eggs that are dirty so a good appearance will be given. Such eggs, however, are apt to age more readily than unwashed eggs, since there is a more rapid evaporation of the contents of the egg and the air cell becomes enlarged, giving the egg the appearance when candled of an old egg. Production of clean eggs in the first place will help greatly—have plenty of clean nesting material in the nests.

Poultry Notes

Gather the eggs twice a day.

* * *

Crowding at the feed hopper stunts the growth of chicks.

* * *

Watch for lice and mites. They multiply fast in hot weather.

* * *

* * *

Green feed in the poultry yard make greenbacks in the pocketbook.

* * *

* * *

Hens need water. It is an essential part of the ration, poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State college say. A shortage of water causes a decrease in the number and size of eggs.

* * *

Use plenty of feed troughs. Start the chicks by nailing a two-inch strip around a nine-inch planed board and provide such a trough three feet long for every 100 chicks. More troughs are needed as chickens grow.

* * *

Of the total cost of producing poultry and eggs on most farms, 50 to 60 per cent is feed cost.

* * *

Lice and mites breed fast these hot days. And if you don't swat 'em and keep 'em swatted, they'll sap a lot of the growth and profit out of your flock.

* * *

A brooder house on clean ground is a profitable investment providing strong, healthy chicks are put into it. Otherwise it is as unprofitable as money in a "closed" bank.

* * *

Fresh eggs contain more water than stale eggs. For this reason fresh eggs sink in water when immersed, while stale eggs float.

* * *

Bare spots around the henhouse are incubators to breed parasites and disease. It pays to cultivate them up and sow to something green.

* * *

Lice and mites are poultry pests which can be controlled effectively. Use nicotine sulphate for lice and creosote or carbolineum for mites. Apply the chemicals on the roosts.

* * *

Do you remember that big capon you would like to have had last Christmas? It is time to caponize a few of the early hatched cockerels. The proper size for caponizing is at one and one-quarter pounds.

* * *

Are you going to need more room for the layers this fall? Every hen and pullet put in the laying house will need three an one-half to four square feet of floor space. If you are going to rebuild an old house or build a new one, do it now and have it ready for the pullets when they start to lay.

What Constitutes a Gentleman?

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I was for a considerable number of years in the unpleasant office of treasurer of an organization, the duties of which required that I make collections from various members who had made subscriptions for the support of the group. Now asking people for money, even for money they have quite voluntarily agreed to pay, involves certain embarrassments.

I had written Pinkerton twice a year for six or seven years, politely too, calling his attention to the fact that his notes were overdue and the indebtedness increasing as time went on, and emphasizing our need of funds. There was no reply, no remittances, nothing but silence, but a good deal of that, and yet the man was quite able to pay. Patience ceased to be a virtue; the worm turned.

I wrote brother Pinkerton that I should put his account into the hands of a reputable attorney. Having failed in one way to collect I should try another. I met him a few days later. There was no joy in his countenance, no glad hand extended, nothing of cordiality in his greeting.

"I have read your last letter," he announced to me, "and I think you are no gentleman."

It was a question, I answered, that I was prepared to argue, but whatever the final decision might be, it seemed to me it hardly affected his indebtedness to his organization. The experience led me to ask myself, "What are the characteristics of a gentleman?"

A gentleman still, I think, has respect for women and for old age. I was walking down a corridor of a public building not long ago, when I came upon a young man, his hat on his head, a cigar between his teeth, talking to a young girl. As I came by he removed his hat and took the cigar out of his mouth. He still had respect for old age, but for women—well, he had not really given the matter a great deal of consideration.

A gentleman is clean of speech, clean of body, low voiced, little given to anger. At least when anger surges within him he controls it. Nothing marks a man as common more than loud, vulgar, profane and risque talk, and a dirty body is only little less vulgar.

Respect for the feelings of others or the comfort or the happiness of others always marks the gentleman. Should I have dunned Pinkerton?

An old lady is sitting across from me in the Pullman and facing her is a young fellow who has evidently never met her before. He has pushed a cushion under her feet; he has adjusted her pillow to give her more comfort; he has helped her on with her coat as she was leaving the train. He seemed to me a good deal of a gentleman, for he had made her comfortable, he had relieved her of responsibility, he had made her happy.

A gentleman is modest, reserved, seldom insists on sitting in the front seat, and does not often offer advice unless he is asked for it. He does his duty whether it is pleasant or not, and in doing it tries to give others as little discomfort as possible.

It had been pronounced that for them to remain here means only one thing—death.

So Ben and Sam sailed from Montreal on a Hudson Bay company's icebreaker, the Nascopie. They will be taken back by returning missionaries. They do not want to go back to the land of the midnight sun, and the reason they expressed was just "Baffin' Lan' too code."

"This experiment has been thoroughly satisfactory from one point of view," declared Ven. A. L. Fleming, who bore the responsibility and expense of the enterprise. "It has shown, as we have claimed, that the Eskimo is in no way inferior to the white man."

The archdeacon said the Eskimo was an intelligent but undeveloped race. The way Ben and Sam picked up the white man's language and customs in such a short time was remarkable. "I wish white men could learn Eskimo as quickly as these two picked up English," said the archdeacon.

Veteran Missing 14 Years Finds Wife Wed

Pavia, Italy.—Luigi Rossi, a mechanician, who was supposed to have given his life for Italy amid the fiercest fighting in the battle of Asiago highlands in 1915, returned to his birthplace recently to find his wife married again and the mother of three children.

Signor Rossi, upon his arrival, was received as one returned from the dead. He said that the Austrians had captured him in a battle 14 years ago and that he had been living in the wildest spot in Bessarabia since the war.

He decided to permit his wife to decide what she is going to do about it.

Gives Up Job as Cupid's Aid

Paris.—In spite of the hectic, hard-boiled kind of life that Paris is pictured as living, romance is not altogether dead in the city on the banks of the Seine.

Some one who can prove this is a certain young American girl. She isn't the heroine of the story. Instead, she played the part of cupid.

In recounting the affair the French newspapers refer to her as Miss X. She arrived in Paris with no clear idea of what she could do, until some one suggested she become a guide for select young ladies. Now guides for young ladies select and otherwise are as numerous as the fishes in the ocean; the idea seemed good to her.

The girl inserted an advertisement in English in the French and English language newspapers in Paris and sat down to wait for answers. One came. It was from an automobile mechanic in New York.

"Dear Miss," he wrote: "I don't want to be guided about Paris, but there is a girl I met over there in Paris towards the end of the war that I should like to know about now. She was so beautiful her face haunts me still—"

He couldn't remember her name, but he had her last address. He recalled, too, that she played the violin. The girl went to the address indicated in the Avenue Jean Jaures, traced the little French sweetheart of the American doughboy, and hurried back to write a letter to him to tell him so.

More letters passed and in one of them the boy in New York asked Miss X to propose for him, which she did. A few weeks later mademoiselle and her mother sailed for New York. And still later came a final letter for Miss X. It contained a check from the bridegroom for two dollars and a half.

Since even people who act cupid must live on something, the American girl is now back home.

Family Tombstones Sold by Former Aristocrat

Moscow.—The artistic gravestones on the tombs of her parents are helping support a former aristocrat now reduced to beggary.

Lady Maria Skaratina-Demskaya was once among the most brilliant figures in the imperial court at St. Petersburg. Now she is a familiar figure on the streets of Moscow—an old, sick woman who begs kopecks from passersby.

Recently, when it was announced that a monastery where her family tombs are located would be razed, she reclaimed the sculptured gravestones over her father's and mother's tombs and sold them.

Shares Riches; Finds Happiness

St. Louis, Mo.—Giving away a fortune has provided happiness in the declining years of life for Robert S. Brookings, of this city. Thirty-three years ago Mr. Brookings was a wealthy man. Today he has only a moderate income—because he believes a man can enjoy money more by spending it wisely than by hoarding it.

Mr. Brookings is now seventy-nine years old.

The philanthropist began his business career as a shipping clerk at a salary of $25 a month, which was just enough to pay for his room and board. He was promoted time after time until he was high in the employ of a large manufacturing business operated by Samuel Cupples, in St. Louis.

Just 33 years ago Mr. Brookings and Mr. Cupples held one of the strangest conferences in history—the former asking his employer just how was the best way of getting rid of all his money except what he would need to support himself.

The ultimate result of that conference was that Mr. Brookings has organized three institutions for study and research in problems of government, developed a tottering little college into an institution of world-wide fame, Washington university, and devoted much of his time and money to patriotic service for his country. There are hundreds upon hundreds of homes in St. Louis today which are more luxurious than his. But he is happy!

There must be something wrong with that old axiom about ignorance being bliss—otherwise more people would be happy.

Preferred stocks cease to be such when the dividends are deferred.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Dynamite and Oil

A successful method of locating oil is through the use of dynamite. The salt dome, in most cases far beneath the ground's surface, is usually, but not always an indication of oil. To detect the domes, dynamite is exploded and the vibrations recorded by the seismograph. Vibrations pass through ordinary soil about one-third as slowly as when they pass through a salt dome, and the seismograph indicates the difference.

MIGHTY MONARCH OF THE AIR

Make this SIDE by SIDE test —let your own ears decide

HERE is Majestic's challenge to the whole world of radio: go to your radio dealer today and have him put a Majestic set side-by-side with any other radio no matter how costly. Have him connect both to the same aerial with a switch to operate them alternately. Now, make this side-by-side test under precisely the same conditions, considering each of these seven essential points:

1. Tone—at every degree of volume.
2. Sensitivity—ability to bring in distant stations clearly at good volume.
3. Selectivity—test each for sharp separation of stations.
4. Ease of control—judge and compare for simplicity.
5. Beauty—of design, of woods, of finish. Watch details. Run your hand over each.
6. Reliability—look inside and compare for extra power, size and strength.
7. Quiet Operation—free from A C hum, sputter and all background noise.

What could be fairer than this side-by-side test? Time after time we have said, "You cannot buy a better radio than Majestic at any price." This side-by-side test will prove it. Let your own ears and eyes decide. Any dealer will help you make this test. See him today.

Model 92

Menlo Council In Session Tuesday

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening with all members answering roll call.

Mr. Britton, superintendent of the Bear Gulch Water Company, addressed the council in reference to the complaint made by the people living on Partridge avenue. He said that a survey of the system was made some time ago by the owners and found that $350,000 had to be expended on the plant. It wa. agreed to spend this sum over a period of three years, beginning with this year. Considerable extensions were made and improvements inaugurated. That the unit for 1930 would take care of Stanford Park and that thereafter a splendid service would be rendered that territory.

H. A. Chandler, secretary of the Exchange Club, urged the council to take some action in regulating the traffic at the Fremon school as the children were in danger in crossing the streets at that point. The council referred the matter to the chief of police to secure the necessary warning signals and make other regulations.

The P.-T. A. also complained of the poor traffic regulations at the Central school. Owing to the extra duties of the janitor he was unable to give sufficient time to the important matter. The latter was referred to the chief of police who is to secure aid of the state traffic force to assist him in patrolling the highway during the time the children arrive and are leaving the school.

No action was taken upon the communication from L. E. Harris, who complained that fires were carelessly being started in back yards, endangering the fire traps close by.

The claim of J. H. Harcom for $89 for insurance on the city's vehicles brought up considerable discussion. Miss E. Noel presented a communication showing that the work could be done for $59. Walker insisted the claim be rejected. The chairman held that in as much as the policy had been issued no action could be taken. However after much debate the matter was laid over to give the matter further investigation.

Mayor Ellis informed the council that the telephone company should be given the numbers of the houses in town for the October directory of the company. The new numbering will begin soon and all residents of the town should sent the number of their residence to the company, so that they will be properly listed in the new directory.

The residents living on Cambridge street petitioned the council to have modern street improvements commenced on the thoroughfare. The residents of Roble avenue also presented a similar petition. Both petitions were referred to City Engineer Kneese to prepare plans and specifications and to inaugurate the work.

An ordinance fixing the method and collecting of taxes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, was passed and adopted. The amount sought to be collected is $4243. The rate of taxes will be fifty cents on the $100 of assessable property. The ordinance renaming certain streets and the penalty for removing street signs was adopted.

Weeden in a lengthy address urged the board to reduce the licences of the merchants, holding that the good condition of the treasury did not warrant the placing of such a burden upon the business men. He was backed up in this contention by Dale, while Walker strenuously opposed the proposition. The chair held that there was no petition before the council asking for such reduction and therefore no action could be taken.

Blake made a motion to allow the police department its customary contingent fund of $100. This brought Dale to his feet with a motion that the chief of police give an accounting of the $300 already allocated to him. After a heated debate the motion was submitted to the council with the result that Ellis, Blake and Walker voted no, and Weeden and Dale, yes. The city attorney said that such a motion was in order.

No further business appearing the council adjourned to the next regular meeting.

Leave for Europe

Doctor C. Ankele, wife and two sons departed for Europe recently to spend a year on the continent. The doctor will take a course of surgery at Vienna and on his return will locate at Sacramento. A short time ago he disposed of his lucrative practice at Dunsmuir. Mrs. Ankele was formerly the pretty Genevieve McEvoy, youngest daughter of the late P. H. McEvoy, supervisor of this township for many years. Mrs. Ankele was born in Menlo Park and grew to girlhood here.

Very Ill At Atherton Home.

Mrs. Charles E. McPherson, wife of the undertaker, C. E. McPherson, suffered a paralytic stroke during the week and is quite low at her home in Atherton. Her son, who joined the U. S. Navy recently, has been sent for. His ship is cruising on foreign waters. Mrs. McPherson is loved and liked by all who know her. It is the sincere hope and prayer that she will recover.

Appointed A Teacher At Los Banos

Miss Zeta Thomas, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Thomas, has been appointed a teacher in the Los Banos high school as a teacher of Home Economics. She is a bright and clever girl, who is certain to make a success in her chosen profession. Her family have moved to Corvallis, Oregon, and will spend the winter there. Mr. Thomas will close his real estate office here.

Desmond Sullivan Injured Tuesday

Desmond Sullivan, young son of J. H. Sullivan, on Tuesday suffered severe injuries while employed by the firm that is building a bridge on the San Francisquito Creek near the J. Henry Meyer estate on Santa Cruz avenue. He fell from a scaffolding to the creek bed, a distance of twenty-five feet, sustaining a fracture of the right hand in three places. In the descent he struck a projecting scantling that broke the fall, thus preventing more serious injuries. Young Sullivan was hastened to the Palo Alto hospital where the limb was set. He has been removed to his home and is doing nicely.

To Erect Home at Atherton Ave

M. A. McCann is about to award a contract for a commodious home on his three-acre holding on Atherton avenue across from the estate of George Roos. The dwelling is to be the last word in the comfort of homes and is to be attractive architecturally. The home will cost $50,000. McCann hopes to occupy it early next spring.

Dove Season Opens Sept. 1.

The dove season opens on Sunday. Local hunters have for some time been preparing for the event. Birds are reported plentiful in the lowlands and in the hills. Good sport is looked forward to by sportsment in this locality. W. T. Casey, Edward O'Keefe, Joseph McCarthy, Joe Prine and numerous others will seek the hunting grounds early on the sabbath.
